Critical Approaches to Ageing and Later Life - Anne Jamieson 1997-08-16
How are individuals and society ageing towards the end of the twentieth century? How can different disciplines help us to understand the ageing process? What are the key developments in postmodern thought and critical studies in relation to ageing and later life? In answer to these questions, the editors of this volume have brought together some of the leading figures in the field. Gathered together for the first time in a single volume, the authors discuss the latest theoretical developments in the international field of ageing. Drawing on research from the USA and UK, the book is strongly multi-disciplinary in content with chapters from both social sciences and humanities. The book provides a critical approach to our understanding of the experience of ageing and later life. It has been written for advanced students of gerontology and those with an interest in ageing and later life, but it is also relevant to policy makers and practitioners in the field. Key features: First time work from the USA and UK has been available in one volume Wide coverage of the latest trends and theoretical approaches in gerontology Issues addressed from a range of disciplines - unusual combination of humanities and social science in one volume Written by leading experts in the field.

Makran, Oman and Zanzibar - Beatrice Nicolini 2004-06-01

This unique contribution to the growing field of western Indian Ocean studies brings new light and new perspective on the early 19th century expansion of both Omani Sultan and the British. The important role played by the Baluch in East Africa is here discussed thanks to little known archive documents integrated with field work.

The Ancestor Syndrome - Anne Ancelin Schutzenberger 2014-02-25

In The Ancestor Syndrome Anne Ancelin Schutzenberger explains and provides clinical examples of her unique psychogenealogical approach to psychotherapy. She shows how, as mere links in a chain of generations, we may have no choice in having the events and traumas experienced by our ancestors visited upon us in our own lifetime. The book includes fascinating case studies and examples of 'genosociograms' (family trees) to illustrate how her clients have conquered seemingly irrational fears, psychological and even physical difficulties by discovering and understanding the parallels between their own life and the lives of their forebears. The theory of 'invisible loyalty' owed to previous generations, which may make us unwittingly re-enact their life events, is discussed in the light of ongoing research into transgenerational therapy. Anne Ancelin Schutzenberger draws on over 20 years of experience as a therapist and analyst and is a well-respected authority, particularly in the field of Group Therapy and Psychodrama. First published as Aie, mes Aieux this fascinating insight into a unique style of clinical work has already sold over 32,000 copies in France and will appeal to anyone working in the psychotherapy profession.

The Making of Feudal Agricultures? - Miquel Barceló 2004-02-01

The Register of Laws of the Arabian Gulf offers a single, comprehensive source of key information in the field. No similar work exists in the English language. Drawing on original Arabic sources - invariably very difficult to find either individually or in series - this major loose-leaf work provides a complete database of all laws and regulations originating in each country of the Arabian Gulf.

Unbiased Stereology - Vyvyan Howard 2004-11-15

Unbiased Stereology, Second Edition is a practical guide to making unbiased 3-D measurements via the microscope. Only those stereological techniques which have been tried and tested by real application are included. Although this technology is essentially mathematical and statistical, the authors do not immerse the reader in complex analysis, but rather provide simple heuristic explanations and references to the original proof, and illustrate the theory by analogies drawn from everyday experience. To give practical experience in application of the techniques, exercises are provided at the end of each chapter, complete with detailed worked answers.

ABÉCÉDAIRE PHILOSOPHIQUE À L'USAGE DES (DÉ)CONFINÉ.E.S -

Caroline Baudouin 2020-04-20

Présentation : Plutôt que d'être un emprisonnement contraint par l'extérieur, le confinement ne pourrait-il pas rimer avec un accouchement jaillissant de l'intérieur, en quête d'un monde meilleur ? Le confinement révèle le nœud de toutes nos crises sanitaire, économique, sociale, politique et culturelle. C'est le bon moment (kairos) pour une mise en examen dialoguée, avec nous-mêmes et les autres, en vue d'un monde plus juste et plus habitable dans ses institutions collectives car plus lucide et plus responsable dans nos intentions subjectives.

Saisissons-nous du "geste sanitaire" le plus salubre, pour entrevoir et faire advenir, effectivement, "les jours heureux" : "Lisons !" C'est ce que vous propose, modestement mais résolument, cet abécédaire philosophique dont la diversité des propositions ne manquera pas de nous aider à surmonter ce moment périlleux. Sommaire : Authenticité - De l'authenticité ou comment devenir soi-même ?, Caroline Baudouin Bricoler - Qu'est-ce que bricoler signifie ?, Arnaud Saint-Pol Conatus - Du conatus ou de la puissance d'exister, Evelyne Guillemeau Dieu - Quel serait ce Dieu « plus intime à moi que moi-même » ?, Jean-Michel Vienne Épicurisme - Pour tordre le cou à quelques idées reçues sur la pensée

Hunter-Gatherer Archaeology as Historical Process - Kenneth E.

Sassaman 2016-10-01

The remains of hunter-gatherer groups are the most commonly discovered archaeological resources in the world, and their study constitutes much of the archaeological research done in North America. In spite of paradigm-shifting discoveries elsewhere in the world that may indicate that hunter-gatherer societies were more complex than simple remnants of a prehistoric past, North American archaeology by and large hasn't embraced these theories, instead maintaining its general neoevolutionary track. This book will change that. Combining the latest empirical studies of archaeological practice with the latest conceptual tools of anthropological and historical theory, this volume seeks to set a new course for hunter-gatherer archaeology by organizing the chapters around three themes. The first section offers diverse views of the role of human agency, challenging the premise that hunter-gatherer societies were bound by their interactions with the natural world. The second section considers how society and culture are constituted. Chapters in the final section take the long view of the historical process, examining how cultural diversity arises out of interaction and the continuity of ritual practices. A closing commentary by H. Martin Wobst underscores the promise of an archaeology of foragers that does not associate foraging with any particular ideology or social structure but instead invites inquiry into counterintuitive alternatives. Hunter-Gatherer Archaeology as Historical Process seeks to blur the divisions between prehistory and history, between primitive and modern, and between hunter-gatherers and people in other societies. Because it offers alternatives to the dominant discourse and contributes to the agenda of hunter-gatherer research, this book will be of interest to anyone involved in the study of foraging peoples.

France-Allemagne - Stéphanie Krapoth 2005

Pour un Allemand, le vin, l'esprit et l'art de vivre sont français. Pour un Français, la bière, la rigueur et la discipline sont allemandes. Les stéréotypes ont la vie dure, dans l'idée que nous nous faisons de nos plus proches voisins. Sa manifestant avec éclat à partir de la seconde moitié du XIXe siècle, l'antagonisme franco-allemand a été rapidement élevé en mythe et traduit par des clichés toujours vivaces. Mais, s'appuyant sur des extraits de manuels scolaires et de journaux satiriques français et allemands, l'auteur nous démontre que, de Napoléon aux années postérieures à la chute du Mur, et de l'hostilité héréditaire à l'amitié actuelle, l'histoire de l'imagerie franco-allemande fournit un bel exemple d'évolution des mentalités. D'ailleurs, l'Europe en construction serait aujourd'hui inconcevable dans le couple franco-allemand. Alors, à l'aube du IIIe millénaire, Français et Allemands, nous reconnaissons-nous encore dans ce vieux miroir ?

Science Fiction from Quebec - Amy J. Ransom 2009-05-06

This first book-length study of French-language science fiction from Canada provides an introduction to the subgenre known as "SFQ" (science fiction from Quebec). In addition, it offers in-depth analyses of SFQ sagas by Jacques Brossard, Esther Rochon, and Elisabeth Vonarburg. It demonstrates how these multivolume narratives of colonization and postcolonial societies exploit themes typical of postcolonial literatures, including the denunciation of oppressive colonial systems, the utopian hope for a better future, and the celebration of tolerant pluralistic societies. A bibliography of SFQ available in English translation is included.

Sourcebook of Paleolithic Transitions - Marta Camps 2009-09-01

As the study of Palaeolithic technologies moves towards a more analytical approach, it is necessary to determine a consistent procedural framework. The contributions to this timely and comprehensive volume do just that. This volume incorporates a broad chronological and geographical range of Palaeolithic material from the Lower to Upper Palaeolithic. The focus of this volume is to provide an analysis of Palaeolithic technologies from a quantitative, empirical perspective. As new techniques, particularly quantitative methods, for analyzing Palaeolithic technologies gain popularity, this work provides case studies particularly showcasing these new techniques. Employing diverse case studies, and utilizing multivariate approaches, morphometrics, model-based approaches, phylogenetics, cultural transmission studies, and experimentation, this volume provides insights from international contributors at the forefront of recent methodological advances.

The Search for a European Identity - Furio Cerutti 2008-06-30

This book examines the link between political identity and legitimacy in the European Union. Stimulated by the crisis of legitimacy and identity suffered by the EU after the referenda on the Constitutional Treaty, the editors have developed a theoretical framework to examine the interplay between these two items in the problematic development of the EU into a fully-fledged political actor. The contributors to the volume seek to: Redefine the key notions in the rigorous way of political philosophy, thus avoiding the generic or imprecise language usage found in a large part of political science literature on identity. Test these concepts in the analysis of EU policies that may reveal the world views and the principles upon which EU legislation is based, and whose degree of acceptance on the side of the citizens is an indicator of how far a shared political identity has developed. Featuring case studies on foreign and environmental policy, biosafety policy, biotechnology regulation, civil society, human rights promotion, as well as studies on the role of memory, space and external views on the process of European identity-building, this book will be of interest to students and researchers of political science, political philosophy, European politics and European Studies.

Collective Memory - Jo McCormack 2010

Collective Memory examines contemporary transmission of memories in France of the Algerian war of independence (1954-62). The work emphasizes the lack of transmission of memories of this war through a detailed case study of three crucial vectors of memory: school history, the media, and the family; and argues that lack of transmission of memories is feeding into contemporary racism in France.

The Dinosauria - David B. Weishampel 2004-12-06

When the The Dinosauria was first published more than a decade ago, it was hailed as "the best scholarly reference work available on dinosaurs" and "an historically unparalleled compendium of information." This second, fully revised edition continues in the same vein as the first but encompasses the recent spectacular discoveries that have continued to revolutionize the field. A state-of-the-science view of current world research, the volume includes comprehensive coverage of dinosaur systematics, reproduction, and life history strategies, biogeography, taphonomy, paleoecology, thermoregulation, and extinction. Its internationally renowned authors—forty-four specialists on the various members of the Dinosauria—contribute definitive descriptions and illustrations of these magnificent Mesozoic beasts. The first section of The Dinosauria begins with the origin of the great clade of these fascinating reptiles, followed by separate coverage of each major dinosaur taxon, including the Mesozoic radiation of birds. The second part of the volume navigates through broad areas of interest. Here we find comprehensive documentation of dinosaur distribution through time and space, discussion of the interface between geology and biology, and the paleoecological inferences that can be made through this link. This new edition will be the benchmark reference for everyone who needs authoritative information on dinosaurs.

L'invention des pieds-noirs - Eric Savarèse 2002

Qui sont les Pieds-Noirs ? Dans quelles conditions un million d'individus qui subissent l'épreuve des " rapatriements " peuvent se rassembler sous cette bannière ? Quelles sont les stratégies identitaires mises en œuvre par des porte-parole d'une " communauté " impliquée dans des guerres de mémoires, en France métropolitaine, après l'indépendance de l'Algérie ? S'agit-il d'un ensemble d'individus homogène ou d'un groupe de personnes parmi lesquelles il existe des mémoires concurrentes ? Finalement qu'est-ce qu'un " rapatrié " ? C'est à toutes ces questions qu'Eric Savarèse s'efforce de répondre. En interrogeant des militants associatifs, en consultant des documents iconographiques et des romans qui appartiennent à une " littérature d'exil ", l'auteur montre que les Pieds-Noirs sont le produit d'une histoire entamée dans l'épisode tragique de la guerre d'Algérie et réinventée par la suite dans l'exil. C'est donc dans l'interface entre leur existence en France et la recomposition de leur mémoire de l'Algérie qu'il faut saisir l'invention des Pieds-Noirs : la construction d'une identité pied-noir s'élabore contre la perception métropolitaine des " rapatriés ", et repose sur l'invention d'une tradition qui magnifie une spécificité " pied-noir " forgée dans l'histoire algérienne.

River Basin Trajectories - François Molle 2009

This book contains 11 papers which cover a range of vital topics in the areas of water, agriculture, food security and ecosystems - the entire spectrum of developing and managing water in agriculture, from fully irrigated to fully rainfed lands. They are about people and society, why they decide to adopt certain practices and not others and, in particular, how water management can help poor people. They are about ecosystems - how agriculture affects ecosystems, the goods and services ecosystems provide for food security and how water can be managed to meet both food and environmental security objectives. This is the eighth book in the series.

Memories of May '68 - Chris Reynolds 2011-09-15

For over forty years now, the French events of 1968 have been the focus of much attention both within France and beyond. While mai 68 is certainly seen as a watershed in the development of French society, a common narrative that portrays it in an increasingly reductive light has become prevalent. In fact it is less and less portrayed as the very serious nationwide crisis and largest strike in French history but more as a bon-enfant tantrum led principally by a spoilt generation of Parisian students intent on wreaking havoc during a period of much required - and today much longed for - political and economic stability. 2008 saw a continuation in the decennial commemorations that have been fundamental in shaping the doxa and thus furnished an excellent opportunity to assess any developments in how these events are represented, perceived and remembered. How and why has the common narrative come to dominate representations? What has been the impact on how the events are perceived by today's youth? To what extent does this interpretation fall short of painting the entire picture? This study answers such questions by arguing that the memory of 1968 has been shaped and cultivated in such a way that undermines its true magnitude. Why this is the case, who benefits from the dominance of this consensus and to what extent the history of 1968 is retrievable are the questions that underpin Memories of mai 68: France's Convenient Consensus.

Arthropod Relationships - Richard A. Fortey 2012-12-06

The arthropods contain more species than any other animal group, but the evolutionary pathways which led to their current diversity are still an issue of controversy. Arthropod Relationships provides an overview of our current understanding, responding to the new data arising from sequencing DNA, the discovery of new Cambrian fossils as direct evidence of early arthropod history, and developmental genetics. These new areas of research have stimulated a reconsideration of classical morphology and embryology. Arthropod Relationships is the first synthesis of the current debate to emerge: not since the volume edited by Gupta was published in 1979 has the arthropod phylogeny debate been, considered in this depth and breadth. Leaders in the various branches of arthropod biology have contributed to this volume. Chapters focus progressively from the general issues to the specific problems involving particular groups, and thence to a consideration of embryology and genetics. This wide range of disciplines is drawn on to approach an understanding of arthropod relationships, and to provide the most timely account of arthropod phylogeny. This book should be read by evolutionary biologists, palaeontologists, developmental geneticists and invertebrate zoologists. It will have a special interest for post-graduate students working in these fields.

L'histoire et ses fonctions - Henri Moniot 2000

Des historiens polonais et français ont constitué un groupe de travail sur la connaissance historique, attentif d'abord à son écriture et à son enseignement mais aussi à ses multiples formes de présence dans le discours social, depuis les savoirs les plus intellectuellement distancés jusqu'aux mémoires les plus affectives ou les plus instrumentalisées.
